Instructor: Steve Mattoon is an internationally recognized tactical consultant & trainer with fifty years of operational experience working with military and law enforcement units.

Steve was contracted from 1987 to 1990 to instruct in special operations to Washington State Law Enforcement Agencies, the Fort Lewis Special Reaction Team, and Washington State Department of Corrections institutions. He was under personal services contract to Tacoma Police Department and Washington State Criminal Justice Training Commission to provide tactical counter terrorist training in preparation for the 1990 Goodwill Games, special instruction in explosive breaching techniques, hostage recovery, sniper/counter sniper operations, tactical surveys, and special assault planning for all 1990 Goodwill Games venue sites. He was responsible for instruction on special weapons, site penetration in the event of an incident, and covert scouting and surveillance techniques. From 1990–1995 he was a contract instructor for Washington State Criminal Justice Training Commission and provided operational assistance to numerous State of Washington local law enforcement, federal law enforcement, and correctional agencies, as well as providing special tactical instruction for state tactical teams. For the last 15 years, he has worked as director of training and operations for several companies- responsible for all law enforcement and military training. Steve is currently a law enforcement and military consultant and recently started his own training company.
